

Callistemon viminalis 'Hanna Ray'

HANNA RAY BOTTLEBRUSH TREE

This variety is slightly smaller in height than Callistemon 'Dawson River' and has red flowers. It is a large shrub /small tree with drooping branches. The flowers are red bottlebrush flowers. The foliage has a green-grey woolly appearance.

A good variety for native plantings and gardens. Can be used as an informal hedge as well as in streetscape plantings. Great habitat for native fauna.

Likes a moist, well drained soil and flowers best in a sunny position. Frost tolerant but may require watering in long dry periods.
