

Arbutus menziesii

PACIFIC STRAWBERRY TREE, PACIFIC MADRONE

| | |
|--------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Tree | |
| Description | This is an attractive tree with smooth russet orange sinuous trunks, its peeling bark and thick green leathery leaves. It produces white urn-shaped flowers born in upright clusters in spring followed by red to orange rough strawberry-looking fruit. |
| Foliage |  Evergreen |
| Form |  Oval |
| Mature Size | 8 x 6m |
| Uses | This tree is bird-attracting. It is suitable for residential properties and as a feature tree in parks and open spaces. |
| Position & Soil | Has moderate frost tolerance and high drought tolerance once established. Prefers some frost protection in early years. May grow well on elevated areas. Grows best in well-drained soils. Full sun position. |
| Features |  Small  Evergreen  Oval  Bird Attracting  Feature Bark  Feature Flower  Shade Tree |
| Pot sizes in production | |
| Substitutes | |

strongly recommended that users enquire about product availability independently of this source.