

Photinia robusta

RED LEAF PHOTINIA TREE

This fast-growing, small tree has glossy red foliage which turns green as it matures. It has small white flowers borne in early spring with red fleshy fruit following.

A nice feature tree because of its great colouring. Can be used for screening and in medium-large gardens. It has a dense growth habit which makes it a good selection for screening and hedging.

Will tolerate most soils in full sun. Likes fertile well drained soils. they should be pruned to promote bushiness and new growth.
